

Soak It Up! construction has officially started. Garden beds have been built, installed and partially planted, weeds have been pulled, rock has been removed and washed, and digging has begun! Come and see the process for yourself! Schedule a private tour anytime, or come to our group tour! The group tour is scheduled for September 17th from 11am to 1pm. We will likely be installing swales and biofilters. Guests may come for a short time, or the entire tour. To schedule, email amy.smith@onnewground.com.

Judd Steinbeck, owner of Coulee Region Ecoscapes. He is donating numerous hours to this project!

Along with a small plum tree orchard, five raised garden beds have been built, installed, and partially planted!

Judd Steinbeck, explaining to volunteers what rock needs to be removed, washed, and then reused.

Ben and Scott, spending hours washing the old river rock. This rock has to be washed to remove any old dirt that may contain unwanted weeds and plants.
